

Steelworker Dies During Heat Wave

Torrance's startling heat wave which reached an all-time high of 110.5 degrees Thursday noon witnessed one death, several cases of heat prostration, a smoldering industrial fire which put one fireman in the hospital, serious losses to chicken ranchers, and much general discomfort.

Dead is Tony Garcia Rios, 47, of 2236 Del Amo, a steel strander at Columbia and Geneva Steel.

Mr. Rios left his post Thursday noon, complaining that he did not feel well. When his condition failed to improve by evening, he was taken to Harbor General hospital where he died shortly after noon Friday.

Rosary was recited for Mr. Rios Tuesday with requiem mass celebrated at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Pueblo Wednesday morning, Rev. P. J. McGuinness officiating.

Mr. Rios is survived by his wife, Rebecca, and a daughter, Clara Rios at the home address; a daughter, Nellis Solis at 2227 1/2 Del Amo; two sons, Paul and Joe Rios of the home address; a brother, Pete G. Rios, of 1642 West 208th street, and a sister, Catherine Flores, of 2216 Del Amo.

Young Man Hit

Another case of heat prostration involved Ronald J. Johnson, 20, of 2621 Martha, who was found stricken on Border avenue early Friday afternoon. He was rushed to Harbor General hospital and said to be resting comfortably Saturday morning, according to hospital officials.

Overcome by smoke while fighting a fire at the Pacific Waste Products company Friday morning was Fireman Howard Schneider.

Fellow firemen used a resuscitator on him before rushing him to Torrance Memorial hospital. He was released Friday evening.

Loses 2000 Chickens Apparently hardest hit of the local chicken ranches was one owner by George Olding of 3650 Newton street, Welteria, which was almost wiped out completely.

Olding said that he lost 85 per cent of his chickens valued at around $5000. The loss occurred during a 3-hour period last Thursday when 2000 chickens died. Only 450 survived the heat.

End Summer Activities

Cubmaster Henry Jenkins has announced that pack 951C is winding up an active summer. They have had an expedition to the zoo, a family picnic, an excursion and sight seeing trip of the harbor on the cruiser, "Sherwater," and recently a roller skating party.

Cub Scout Mothers 951C shared the cost of chartering the Roller Drome. The entrance fee and use of the skates were provided for the boys.

At present, another family picnic is being planned.

A pot luck supper and father and son baseball game, was the August meeting of Cub Scout Pack 732C which is sponsored by Torrance Elementary P.T.A.

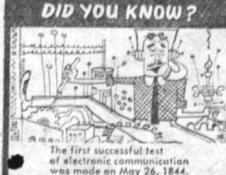

All building on the El Camino Harold Irvin and the flag ceremony was led by Cub Bradley Thompson and Kenny Peterson of Den 6.

Umpiring the game was Bud Stittsworth, who recently relinquished his job of cubmaster to Lee Polick. The assistant cubmaster appointed to help him are Homer Foster and Benny Kidner.
